House Votes On Income Tax Today

LANSING (AP)—Republicans planned to put their state income tax bill to a vote in the House today despite an apparent lack of needed Democratic support.

"I think it's time we put it up on the board and see where everybody is," said Speaker Robert Waldron, R-Grosse Pointe.

"I just can't see what they hope to accomplish," said House Democratic leader William Ryan of Detroit.

The crucial question, apparently, was how many Democratic votes the Republican leaders have gained by making concessions in their original package of fiscal bills.

Waldron said he was hoping for 10 Democratic votes. "I don't see how some of these suburban people could vote against it," he said.

"They'll be lucky to get three or four," said Ryan, who had promised the Republicans 10 votes for a package which met Democrats' objections to the original GOP plan.

Democrats Needed
The parties have 54 seats each in the House. It takes 53 votes to pass a bill. Because a number of Republicans—perhaps as many as 10 or 12—are not expected to vote for the tax bill, substantial Democratic help would be needed to pass it.

The package contained these major features:

A 2 1/2 per cent personal income tax with a $1,000 exemption.

Income taxes of 6 per cent on corporations and 7 per cent on financial institutions, coupled with repeal of the business activities tax.

Repeal of cities' power to levy a 1/2 per cent tax on nonresidents, replacing the lost revenue with a state rebate of money collected under the personal income tax.

A cut in the intangibles tax and a three-cent increase in the per-pack cigarette tax.

Property tax relief worth $90 million under a formula still to be designed.

The State Budget Bureau estimates the new taxes would raise about $614 million while the other features would cost about $320 million, giving Michigan $294 million in net new revenue in fiscal 1968-69.

Hoping to woo Democratic support, Republican negotiators agreed to change the package originally drafted by the Republican caucus by increasing the personal tax exemption from $600 to $1,000, boosting the corporate tax rate from 5 to 6 per cent and trimming the property tax relief figure from $120 million to $90 million.

But Ryan said Wednesday night the compromise package still puts too much of the new tax burden on individuals and not enough on business.

He said business now pays 34 per cent of Michigan taxes and would pay only 14 per cent of the new money raised if the House passes the bills before it.

"You could argue that business shouldn't pay as big a proportion as it's paying now—although I would ask why not," Ryan said. "But under this proposal, the business share comes down too far."

Ryan said Democrats would be more likely to support the package if Republicans agreed that little or none of the $90 million for property tax cuts would benefit business.

SEOUL (AP)—President Chung Hee Park was re-elected by a landslide today in the most orderly election since South Korea got its independence from Japan in 1945. His chief opponent quickly raised a cry of ballot-box stuffing on a huge scale.

With 80 per cent of the unofficial returns in, the government broadcasting network said the 49-year-old candidate of the ruling Democratic Republican party had won with 5,003,520 votes.

Park's chief opponent, former President Yun Po-sun of the New Democratic party, had 3,789,463 votes, and four splinter-group entries totaled about 300,000.

The size of his victory margin was a triumph for Park, who had defeated Yun in 1963 by only 150,000 votes.

In a victory statement, Park called on South Koreans regardless of party to get behind his government's program to "modernize the fatherland."

The overture was met with a blast from Yun's camp. A spokesman accused Park's party of election irregularities and said the opposition would "fight to the last" to expose them.

Critical Plank In '68 Will Be Defeated-Barry

WASHINGTON (AP)—Republican backers of President Johnson's Vietnam policies tightened their ranks today against any party declaration criticizing the conduct of the war.

Sen. Bourke B. Hickenlooper, R-Iowa, followed up a call by Barry Goldwater Wednesday night for the GOP to stand solidly behind Johnson with an assertion he sees no need now for the kind of formal party policy statement GOP Senate dissenters are demanding.

Goldwater deplored in an interview a Senate Republican Policy Committee staff report critical of Johnson's actions. He said he suspects an effort will be made to write some of its criticisms into the 1968 GOP platform.

The 1964 Republican presidential nominee predicted any such effort would be defeated.

GOP Backs LBJ

"In my travels about the country I have found that an overwhelming majority of the Republicans—and the Democrats, too—back the President, especially now that he's doing the things that need to be done to win the war," Goldwater said.

"The Republican party that I know is not going to buy any platform plank that says the Republicans are not backing the President."

The policy committee staff report which exposed differences among Republicans said the GOP should not take responsibility for Democratic "mistakes."

Senate GOP Leader Everett M. Dirksen has promised that the Senate-House party leadership will take up the matter of a Vietnam policy declaration at its next meeting.

But Hickenlooper, head of the Senate Republican Policy Committee and a member of the leadership group, said he thinks the GOP position already is known and "I don't see any necessity for any further statement."

Supporting Troops
"Fundamentally," he said in an interview, "we're supporting our boys fighting in Vietnam. There are arguments over how we got into this war and what is being done, but we want victory."

Dirksen already has lined up a policy committee majority for a pledge of wholehearted support for the President, Johnson, he thinks that represents the prevailing view among Republicans.

But there was quick dissent among GOP senators who are dissatisfied with the President's actions intensifying the war and want their party to go into next year's campaign offering an alternative course.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., told the Senate: "President Johnson is not the only man with answers to Vietnam. Unity doesn't require that we echo him."

ROMNEY HIRES TRAVIS CROSS
LANSING (AP)—Gov. George Romney said today he has hired Travis Cross, public relations man and aide of Mark Hatfield when Hatfield was governor of Oregon. Cross is to work with others who are taking national political soundings for Romney.

Cross, 40, was on the national staff of Citizens for Goldwater-Miller in 1964. In 1966, he coordinated Hatfield's successful campaign for the U.S. Senate.

Romney said Cross would be a "special assistant" involved in activities I am engaged in outside of state activities."

He will not be part of the Lansing-based Romney Associates of Leonard Hall's Romney-for-President Washington office, Romney said, but will work closely with both.

RAIL STRIKE MEDIATION PROPOSED BY PRESIDENT
WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson proposed to Congress today machinery to settle the threatened railroad strike by voluntary means within 90 days, or a binding agreement after that if necessary.

Johnson said the proposal "represents the slightest possible intrusion upon the process of collective bargaining."

His proposal provides for a special five-man board to engage in intensive mediation for the first 30 days between the railroads and six shop craft unions.

If no agreement is reached by then, the White House board would hold hearings to determine whether the recommendations of an earlier White House panel are fair, in the public interest and would protect collective bargaining.

The new presidential panel would file its findings with Congress and the White House, along with any modifications, if there is still no agreement by the 60th day.

If this does not bring a settlement by the 91st day, the proposals for settling the wage dispute would go into effect for up to two years, retroactive to last January 1.

Urging Negotiators Settle
"I urge these railroads and unions to finish this job themselves," Johnson said.

"All Americans recognize that there is a management interest and a labor interest. But there comes a time when the interest of management and the interest of labor must be the public interest—a time when people must be fed, when water must be supplied, when water must be kept potable, and when factories must not be allowed to close down for lack of materials," Johnson said.

Johnson's proposals would provide a basis for settlement of the recommendations of a special three-man mediation panel he named earlier. The recommendations include a 6 1/2 per cent general wage increase for the 127,000 workers involved over 18 months, plus three 5-cent wage hikes for skilled workers at 6-month intervals.

Viet Regulars Battle Marines Near Laos Line

SAIGON (AP)—U.S. Marines battled part way up the slopes of Hill 881 North today in an effort to complete the bloody campaign for high ground near the Laotian border, but then stalled and dug in for the night.

American casualties in the 11-day drive, which has won two peaks from regulars of North Vietnam's 325th Division, mounted to 900. Of these, 157 were killed. Marines said confirmed dead of the enemy were 506, with 610 others believed killed.

There was sniper fire from North Vietnamese holding the summit of Hill 881 North, a Marine spokesman announced, and two stray shells from American artillery killed one Marine and wounded nine. The big guns and planes pounded enemy holdings on the peak.

A few miles away, to the southeast, two enemy companies hit and partly overran a U.S. Army Special Forces camp at Lang Vei before dawn. They killed 28 persons, including two of the U.S. Green Beret advisers, in a fierce firefight with the dozen Americans and 300 irregulars making up the garrison.

Seven of the enemy were found dead after the battle.

As the ground war intensified in the northwest corner of South Vietnam, U.S. Air Force pilots trying to wipe out North Vietnamese air arm hit the Hoa Lac MIG base 20 miles west of Hanoi Wednesday for the fourth time in 10 days. Pilots said four to six MIGs were destroyed or heavily damaged on the ground and that their bombs blanketed areas around the junction of the taxiway and the runway.

South Vietnamese headquarters reported four other ground attacks in the northern part of South Vietnam. No fighting of significance was reported elsewhere today by the U.S. Command.

The first days of the heavy U.S. Marine fighting for the three strategic hills along the Laotian border and just south of the demilitarized zone were reflected in the weekly casualty report issued today by the U.S. Command.

U.S. headquarters said 181 Americans were killed in combat in South Vietnam last week, 22 per cent more than the 148 killed the week before. Nearly half were Marines killed in the fighting for the hills that began April 24. The number of Americans wounded was slightly less than the week before, 957 as compared with 1,031.

War Is Issue In '68 Says Morton

LANSING (AP)—U.S. Sen. George Romney says a lot of his Kentucky constituents want to vote for Michigan Gov. George Romney for president.

But Morton, in Lansing Wednesday to address a $100-a-plate Republican fund raising dinner, declined to take a personal position on a 1968 GOP presidential nominee.

He told some 900 Michigan Republicans at the Lansing Civic Center that he has received a lot of mail since Romney's Feb. 11 Lincoln Day dinner speech in Louisville.

"A lot of them want to vote for him," he said.

"Whether he (Romney) should be our nominee in 1968, I don't know," Morton said. "But he is seeking the answers."

The Kentucky Republican said he—like many U.S. Senate and House members—hasn't taken a position on a nominee because he thinks he can "best serve my party by trying to be somewhat neutral."

His brief speech praised Michigan Republicans for their work in contributing to 1966 GOP election victories.

"Can't Stop It"
Morton told newsmen the Vietnam war would be the biggest issue in the 1968 campaign.

"It will not be a question on the platform," Morton said, "but you can't stop it from being an issue at the ballot box."

Commenting on Republican changes in 1968, Morton said that "as of this moment any Republican can beat" President Johnson.

But he added that "if Johnson ends the war with honor between then (1968) and now, it would be as fully tough to beat him."

The dinner was the first of a planned series of 15 fund raising events scheduled through August featuring such GOP leaders as Sen. John Tower, R-Texas, and Gov. Warren E. Hearnes of Arkansas.

New Board Public
The new five-man presidential board in today's legislation could modify this, Johnson said, all five members will be public members.

"But I intend to recruit one member with a management background and one member with a labor background."

If the settlement proposal of the White House board became binding in the absence of a voluntary agreement after 90 days, the unions and the railroads could continue negotiating for a different settlement.

But a strike by the unions or a lockout by the railroads would be prohibited during the two-year period ending December 31, 1968.

As the President's message went to Congress, the administration continued its effort to keep trucking talks going and critical defense production flowing. William E. Simkin, chief federal mediator, stepped back into stalled trucking negotiations in Chicago.

Westmoreland May Get Two More Divisions

WASHINGTON (AP)—Gen. William C. Westmoreland stands a good chance of getting at least one more Army division to strengthen his forces in Vietnam, government sources said today.

And he could gain two more divisions, depending on the course of the war in the weeks ahead.

Each additional division and its supporting elements would swell Westmoreland's force by 25,000 to 30,000 men.

Present plans calling for a buildup to about 470,000 U.S. servicemen in Vietnam by year's end were completed last fall. The U.S. force in Vietnam was last reported officially at 440,000.

Reds Move Threatening
Since last fall, the Communists have intensified their operations threatening the northernmost provinces of South Vietnam, and have built North Vietnamese regular army elements in the buffer zone area to about four divisions.

There is a marked contrast between the way the Communist buildup is viewed by State Department officials on the one hand and by those at the Defense Department on the other.

State Department officials warned late last week that a major North Vietnamese assault across the border may be imminent.

But Defense Department officials, while concerned about the Red buildup, say they anticipate no such invasion.

To Match Threat
Acceleration of the threat would accelerate Pentagon consideration of any further reinforcements for Westmoreland.

President Johnson took a low key approach Wednesday to questions about further troop commitments.

"I have no recommendations at this time that I am giving my personal consideration to," Johnson told a White House news conference.

He said Westmoreland and other commanders "have made comments" to the Joint Chiefs of Staff and that the JCS are evaluating these comments.

The President indicated he expects Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara and Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, chairman of the Joint Chiefs, to make recommendations to him in the coming weeks.

Cost Mounting
But Johnson added that he does not consider any move "immediately imminent" in the next few days or weeks.

In a censored congressional testimony March 7 made public Wednesday night, McNamara said more men will be needed but that "we can look to the time when it will level off toward the end of this year." The manpower figure he used was censored out.

Another department official, Comptroller Robert N. Anthony, said in testimony released Wednesday night that the war would cost an estimated $21.8 billion during the fiscal year beginning July 1. It cost $9.1 billion last budget year and is estimated to be running up a bill of $19.5 billion for the current fiscal year.

Won't Call Guard
Westmoreland's visit to the United States last week and his conference with Johnson, McNamara and the Joint Chiefs sparked renewal of reports that he wants about 100,000 more men beyond present plans.

Military officials said they believe a further Vietnam buildup, even if it should reach as high as 100,000 men, could be handled through bigger draft calls, rather than mobilizing National Guardsmen or reservists.

Eisenhower Says It's Too Early To Talk Choices
HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP)—Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower said today he might have a personal choice for the Republican presidential nomination next year, but it was too early to talk about it right now.

"It's too early to discuss that now," Eisenhower said as he arrived in Harrisburg after a cross-country train trip from California.

"I might have a personal choice next year. But right now I'm not missing any opportunity to keep still."

Eisenhower refrained from naming a personal favorite in the GOP presidential sweepstakes three years ago.

Lt. Gary D. Helms

Lieutenant Is Top Graduate

FORT DIX, N.J. — Second Lieutenant Gary D. Helms spent an eventful day last Friday.

In the morning he learned that he was being shipped to Vietnam in the fall with a combat engineer unit.

After lunch he received a certificate that designated him the top graduate in the Chemical, Biological and Radiological Defense Course here.

Lieutenant Helms, executive officer of Company D, 5th Battalion, 5th Combat Support Training Brigade, scored 96.5 percent on classroom and practical work during the two-week CBR Course cycle just ended.

He and the 42 officers and enlisted men who graduated with him are qualified to teach and employ defense techniques against chemical, biological or nuclear attack. They also are eligible to perform certain Army jobs such as courier duty which require personnel with CBR training.

The honor student is a June 1966 graduate of Michigan Technological University. He earned a bachelor of science degree in metallurgical engineering and picked up two years of credits in chemistry in the process.

A member of Michigan Tech's Reserve Officer Training Corps, Lieutenant Helms came on to active duty last Nov. 6 and was sent to Fort Belvoir, Va., for nine weeks of training as an officer in the Engineer Corps.

The native of Escanaba lives on post with his wife, Carol, who attended the graduation ceremonies Friday.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. D.S. Helms, 920 5th Ave. S., Escanaba, and is a graduate of Escanaba High School.

Judge To Back Road Cleanup

HOUGHTON—Juvenile traffic offenders in Houghton County are going to learn that "every litter bit hurts" if Probate Judge Joseph Donnelly has his way.

Acting after statistics showed that juvenile traffic violations in the county increased from 53 in 1965 to 84 last year, Judge Donnelly said that every juvenile violator of a motor vehicle law will be required as part of a penalty to work one or more days on the county highway cleanup program.

Juveniles also will be required to surrender driver's licenses for periods deemed appropriate by the court, Donnelly said.

Major juvenile violations in 1966 were driving without an operator's license, 26, and speeding 20. No other violation was cited more than five times.

Adrian And Escanaba In Mayors' Exchange

Mayors' exchange, one of the highlights of Michigan Week, will bring Mayor Walter F. Bohn of Adrian to Escanaba on Monday, May 22, for a program that will include his appearance at a service club luncheon.

Escanaba Mayor Harold Vanlorbergh will go to Adrian for the day. Usually the mayors are accompanied by their wives and other members of their families in their exchange of cities.

Adrian has a population of 20,347 and is located southwest of Detroit near the Ohio line.

At Escanaba on Monday, May 22, the mayor of Adrian will be guest of honor at a joint meeting of the Kiwanis and Rotary Clubs at Marco's. He will be presented with gifts representing Escanaba manufacturing.

Mayor Bohn was born in Adrian 59 years ago and is employed in the petroleum industry.

The Detroit Free Press' University of Michigan Sesquicentennial issue reports on the "Michigan Mafia," the illustrious graduates of the U-M who are now distinguished in many fields of endeavor.

Among this is an Upper Peninsular.

"Ward L. Quaal, as president of WGN Continental Broadcasting Co., is the man in charge of a substantial chunk of American broadcasting from the giant Chicago WGN radio and television operation to their more than 31 broadcasting firms in the United States and Canada. Quaal began his career when — as a high school student in Ishpeming — he worked for three years as announcer, writer, and salesman for WBEO (now WDMJ).

"As an undergraduate at U-M he commuted daily to Detroit so he could work for WJR (while also working for the university broadcasting station). Exactly one day after graduation, Quaal went to work for WGN, a subsidiary of the Chicago Tribune's parent company which donated the call letters WGN. 'World's Greatest Newspaper.' As president of the company he has initiated and directed its expansion into the new national and international markets of broadcasting.

"I remember I was all set to go to Northwestern on a football scholarship when someone talked me out of it. That's how I happened to go to Michigan."

"I was in the class of '41. It was quite a group. I suppose there must have been something in the air."

"But I like to think that those of us involved had some ability. Then, there was the presence at that time of a teacher, Waldo Abbot. He made a great difference for those of us interested in broadcasting. He developed a spirit in us of hard work. We used to work at radio 18-20 hours a day."

"We were depression children. This was the central fact about all of us. Some of the class developed a very liberal attitude because they were from poor families. I was the conservative. Believe me, we had some pretty good arguments."

"An awful lot has happened in Ann Arbor since then — you can even buy a drink there now."

Summer Session Faculty Shines

The distinguished visiting professor will be Dr. Stanley J. Idzerda who was director of Michigan State University's honors college from 1956 to 1965 and who is now dean of the college at Wesleyan (Conn.) University.

Dr. Erich Weis of the German Federal Republic who is now teaching at the University of Vienna, Austria, will be a visiting professor in history with Dr. Herbert Brinks of Calvin, Mich. College.

Among the visiting professors during NMU's two-week post-session, to be held Aug. 14-25, will be Dr. Helen Green, Michigan State University, who will teach a course in the School of Business. Teaching Called Great Profession In Honors Talk MARQUETTE, Mich.—Northern Michigan University's outstanding students were urged May 2 to carefully consider teaching as a career but to remember that student unrest is symbolic of the profession.

Speaking at the university's first annual honors banquet, NMU President Edgar L. Harden told the 270 leading collegians that student unrest was not "born" on the University of California's Berkeley Campus in 1963, but that "student activism has been part of higher education for more than a thousand years."

Stating there is no more important person in the United States than a "well-prepared, conscientious, and dedicated teacher," Harden cited seven qualities that he believes great teachers possess.

The NMU president, a former teacher himself, said a "great teacher" has mastery of his subject matter, is a person of great intellectual stature, is skilled in the art of teaching, demonstrates a keen interest in his students, has an attractive personality, possesses a basic understanding of the psychology of growth and development, and feels a deep sense of responsibility to the institution he represents.

Chicago Strike Idle Spreading

CHICAGO (AP) — A strike-lockout that has idled 45,000 truck drivers in the Chicago area was reported spreading today.

Several attempts to bring about a meeting of union and trucking company representatives failed Wednesday as fears arose that more industries may be affected by the dispute.

The Chicago Association of Commerce estimated the strike-lockout, now in its 11th day, would idle more than 200,000 workers by the end of the week and a million by the end of next week unless a settlement is reached.

The truck transportation stoppage already has resulted in layoffs of thousands of plant workers, material and parts shortages and production cutbacks.

Pickets appeared Wednesday at several more firms and a union spokesman warned, "This action could start a widespread shutdown of trucking operations in the Midwest and nationally."

More than 1,000 trucking companies have been affected by the strike and retaliatory lockout by employers.

A bargaining session set for Wednesday by federal mediators was canceled when Ed Fenner, executive director of the Chicago Truck Drivers Union, refused to attend.

U.P. Bankers Meet Friday

MARQUETTE—Presentations by bankers from three states and a keynote address by Northern Michigan University president Edgar L. Harden will highlight the annual meeting of Group 1 of the Michigan Bankers Association to be held here Friday and Saturday.

Approximately 140 Upper Peninsula bankers, many of whom will be accompanied by their wives, are expected to attend the two-day meeting. Group 4 of the MBS consists of the 50 banks in the Peninsula.

Following remarks by both Joseph Foster, president of the Ann Arbor Bank and president of the Michigan Bankers Association, and John Olin, secretary of the Federal Reserve Bank of Minneapolis, discussion on bank charge plans will be held.

Dr. Harden, who is a director of the Union National Bank & Trust Co., Marquette, will give the keynote address at a dinner Saturday in the University Center.

U.S. Parents Are Erring

Child-Centered Family Called Wrong Accent

"We are a generation that is going to have to live with questions rather than the answers," Dr. Armin Grams, head of the human development program for the Merrill-Palmer Institute of Human Development and Family Life, Detroit, said at Marquette Monday.

Speaking before more than 200 participants in the spring conference of the Upper Peninsula Chapter of the Michigan Council on Family Relations, Grams dealt with questions concerning the changing world and the effect upon parents in rearing their children. He said parents must help children develop a great desire to continue to learn — "help them to learn how to learn, rather than merely to learn something. The emphasis should not be on answers so much as the process in looking for answers."

Speaking on "Early Childhood and Family Relationships in Depth," Grams saw an increasingly mobile and "unclear" or isolated family in today's society. This self-involved family hesitates to put down roots because of the likelihood of having to break off good friendships, ties with the church and community and to begin the process again in a new environment. This modern family then tends to focus upon itself and easily becomes the "child centered" home.

Child Center Wrong
Grams pointed out the dangerous tendency here because the child is not intended to be the center of the family but rather a "satellite" in "orbit" around the husband-wife relationship so that gradually the child will separate from this home and begin his own.

The explosion in knowledge — a doubling of previous knowledge during 1750-1900 then a doubling of this from 1900-50, again from 1950-60 and an estimation that this will happen again from 1967-70 — presents a problem for parents today.

They get the feeling in this age of specialization that they aren't competent to cope with their problems and those of the family, Grams said.

Child Confidence
The emphasis on child rearing today should focus on facilitating the adaptability of the child to his present world, he said. Adults do not know what future adjustments their children are going to be required to make in their family and work world in the space and nuclear age.

It is important to build into children a confidence that they are capable of facing an emerging complicated age and maturing in it. Grams said, "In my estimation the youth today is doing a tremendous job in the face of the problems we've thrust into their life."

A real commitment must be present in today's family, he said. The husband and wife must be able to show their children that they like their marriage, that they are dedicated to each other, that they want their children and they are going to see the family through even the most difficult of problems.

"Morals" Is Parents
The sense of trust that must be part of a healthy child comes from this sense of consistency or "faithfulness" between wife and husband. Grams believes that moral disintegration is not in the college youngster but in the parents of this generation — statistics indicate that the highest occurrence of illegitimacy falls in the ages 30 to 39.

In another talk, "Birth to Maturity — Dependence, Interdependence and Interdependence," Grams pointed out that the key to personality development in a child is his relationship with others — giving and receiving — not just surface acquaintance. The two essential ingredients of personality are the need for each to be helped by others as well as a need to help others. Any maturing personality must have the experience of being cared for by others. Any maturing personality must have the experience of being cared for by others and having utilized his strengths in helping others, he said.

Officers Elected
Every time the human organism faces a situation that threatens it, there is a tendency to regress to dependency, then

Farm Insurance Law Postponed

The Michigan legislature has postponed the effective date for Workman's Compensation for farm employees to June 1, according to information received Wednesday by Joseph Heiman, county extension agent.

The act had been scheduled to take effect May 1, requiring that all agricultural employers with three or more regular employees, who are paid hourly wages or salaries and not on a piecework basis and who are employed 35 or more hours per week by that same employer for 13 weeks or more during the preceding 52 weeks, to purchase workman's compensation coverage.

Weldon O. Yeager, director of workman's compensation, said that the cost of the insurance is about $8.26 per $100 of payroll plus a basic charge. If the agricultural employer has one or more employees employed 35 or more hours per week by that same employer for five or more consecutive weeks and doesn't qualify as above, he is required to buy full medical and hospital coverage, Yeager said. This policy can be coupled with a general liability policy and will cost somewhere between $2 and $5 per $100 payroll, depending on classification. If the liability coverage is omitted, the cost would be from about 60 cents to $2.50 per $100 payroll.

Yeager urged all agricultural employers to contact their insurance companies or agents at once to make arrangements on this new requirement of the law.

Yeager said that although Senate Bill 432 has passed the House and signed into law, the bill would not become effective until 90 days after the Legislature adjourns, which is expected about June 30. This bill would put staggered benefits for agricultural employees over a 3-year period and provide for a different method of figuring the average weekly wage for agricultural workers from that used for industrial workers. It is expected to thereby reduce the $8.26 cost of insurance to farmers.

"If the Bill passes both Houses and is signed into law without immediate effect, it means we would be operating under one law from now until about October 1, and a different law thereafter," Yeager said.

Rod And Custom Show Scheduled

ISHPEMING — The George Barris Munster Coach of "The Munsters" television program will highlight the 5th annual Rod and Custom show of the Peninsula Pistons Auto Club Saturday and Sunday at the Ishpeming Armory.

The armory will be open from 11 a. m. to 11 p. m. Saturday and from 11 a. m. to 8 p. m. Sunday. Between 50 and 60 exhibitors are expected.

Tragic Setback

Governor Romney said this week that with exercise of good will it should be possible to renew the civil rights march in this country.

It must be America's fervent prayer that this is so. Even after the seemingly insoluble war in Vietnam is settled in some fashion the race problem will remain with us as a great national cancer.

The Negroes made very rapid strides toward first class citizenship for several years. Congress outdid itself in passing civil rights legislation. America's conscience was eased a bit as some old wrongs were acknowledged and whites began the very difficult, ennobling process of enlarging their brotherhood to ignore color. And then the tide of good will peaked and ebbed.

It is in backwash now. It is a national tragedy with an enormous potential for troublemaking. A new, angry class of young Negro leaders took over. The long time leaders of the Negro effort for equality were ridiculed and seriously discredited with Negroes. Stokely Carmichael and the other "Black Power" advocates wanted instant equality, or preferably, Black superiority. It was our despicable national racism in reverse, with Negro leaders proposing that Whitey be put in his place.

In an economy and culture like ours there will be privileges and rewards for the able and the Negro in America has always been denied the educational opportunities which would, other things being equal, give him ability. Equality for all Americans can best be built on a foundation of equality of educational opportunity and this is not an instant process.

This is a part of the tragedy of current backlash; it may slow up the processes that can create equality. Another part is that Negro belligerency, after so many generations of Negro long suffering toleration of white racism, has strengthened the foes of equality for Negroes.

The rising white anger was evident in the punitive treatment of Congressman Adam Clayton Powell in Congress. When Senator Dodd was found guilty of shameful misuse of his office he was censured. Negro Powell was denied his seat in Congress. The voters of Connecticut will take care of Dodd, should he have the effrontery to run again. But it is a cause for national dismay that not one responsible Negro leader in the nation spoke out when Powell said that he was being punished because he was a Negro.

He had created a national scandal of such size that it may have been possible only because reaction was so long delayed by the fear of cries of "Racism!" He had done the Negro cause of equality an immense injury, but no Negro leader would censure him. It is a frightening sign of the enormity of the Negro problem.

And our troubles have been compounded by the action of the Rev. Martin Luther King. A world-famed leader of the civil rights movement in America, he has asked all who support the civil rights movement and all who deplore our war in Vietnam to join forces. This is a perversion that passes understanding; the war is the only place where America's men of all colors are integrated.

Dr. King says our "war mad" society should spend, instead, on social uplift. It is a masterstroke of trouble making; he discredits the war as much as he can with Negroes and weirdly links it with racism.

The situation creates a frustration as huge as that created by the war. It calls for an exercise of great good will by White America to match that which has been so exemplary in Negro America for so many generations. The Negroes should not be judged on actions of their leaders, as we have so often said about the Russians. And now comes Svetlana Stalin to America for refuge and to remind us that we were right when we said it.

Wit Hard To Follow

By DAVE BURGIN
WASHINGTON — (NEA) — John F. Kennedy's much-chronicled wit added a new dimension to the measuring of a president.

Not that other presidents or presidential candidates didn't have a knack for a good line now and then. Rather, Kennedy had that rare ability, for a man in such a high office, of stepping back and looking at himself and his office and saying something genuinely funny.

Because of Kennedy, we suppose, we have in Washington today a sort of cult of political wit watchers.

A good line from some congressman or cabinet member sets off an explosion of phone calls and publicity.

President Johnson seldom makes wit news. Feeling is that the LBJ wit is strictly old-line politician, if that.

Democratic party wit leadership today is shared by Vice President Humphrey and New York Sen. Robert Kennedy. Sen. Everett Dirksen, known as "The Great One," is also a wit.

The other day some wit watchers were known when they saw names most often mentioned for the 1968 GOP presidential bid — Governor George Romney of Michigan and Ronald Reagan of California, former Vice President Richard Nixon and Illinois Sen. Charles Percy.

Romney, Nixon and Percy are considered to be serious types, a trifling square. Reagan, however, possibly because of an actor's background, can be funny.

Here's a Romney line "LBJ is down on the ranch improving his Gallup."

Ugh

We thought we set Percy up beautifully at lunch the other day, asking how he felt about occupying a Senate Building office previously used by Bobby Kennedy.

"Oh, I don't really think about it that much," Percy said, blowing it.

Nixon, wit watchers agree, acts as though he practices his "good" lines in front of a mirror.

But Reagan, well, he's done pretty well in his three recent trips to Washington. His best line came when he was asked if he thought Romney ought to spell out his stand on the war in Vietnam.

"Well," Reagan said, "it might help him in press conferences." Then again, it's hard to fault politicians for not being funny. One of the realities of public life is to avoid being called, back home, "that joker in Washington."

Rep. Brock Adams, D-Wash., is President Johnson's leading House spokesman on crime in the nation's capital. Recently he introduced the administration's crime bill.

Just before he introduced it, he reported that a copy of the President's Commission on Crime was stolen from the car of an aide.

Had he waited another week he could have reported also that his home here was burglarized of $200 in cash and household items.

Rep. Clement J. Zablocki, D-Wis., testifying at a hearing by the Senate Juvenile Delinquency subcommittee on the use of training lists to peddle pornography to children, told the group he has learned that the games of one million teen-age girls can be bought for $30 per month.

Zablocki is somewhat of an expert on the sale of mailing lists. Some of them:

A list of 27 dead missionaries costs $8.

The names of 24 zwieback manufacturers goes for $10.50.

Dog brush manufacturers come higher per unit cost than box holders of the Metropolitan Opera.

"Ain't Nobody Here but Us Chickens!"

It's Legal And Foolish

Other States Net Michigan's Cohos

By KENNETH S. LOWE
Of Panax Newspapers

Michigan's coho salmon introduction program, which appears to have been almost unbelievably successful, has been threatened by commercial fishermen in Indiana. For the past several weeks commercial anglers from the Hoosier State have been taking great quantities of cohos in nets set in Lake Michigan.

The cohos, which were planted by the Michigan Conservation Department a year ago in hopes of establishing a new sport fish in the Great Lakes, now weigh several pounds. Commercial fishermen who were harvesting an average of 500 pounds of cohos a day in southern Lake Michigan, were selling them at 80 to 95 cents a pound on one Chicago market.

And it was all completely legal. Although the Michigan Conservation Commission has ordered a ban on Commercial fishing for cohos in Michigan waters of the Great Lakes, none of the other states have taken similar action.

Not Foreseen

Michigan should have foreseen the possibility of cohos migrating into Great Lakes waters of neighboring states and should have approached conservation authorities in Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin and Minnesota, requesting their cooperation in protecting the salmon. These states very likely would have been willing to close their waters to commercial fishing for cohos while leaving the season open for sport fishing.

When asked to take emergency measures to halt the wholesale netting of salmon, the Indiana Department of Conservation acted promptly. Indiana announced last week that it had taken steps to shut down commercial fishing for coho salmon (and chinook salmon, which Michigan will plant this year for the first time) in about 20 days. And Indiana is adopting sport fishing regulations for cohos similar to Michigan's.

Planted In U.P.

The Lake Michigan cohos are survivors of 700,000 fingerlings planted last spring in the Platte River and Bear Creek in the northern Lower Peninsula. Apparently feeding heavily on alewives, they grew spectacularly and provided some excellent sport fishing last fall.

Coinciding with the Platte and Bear Creek releases spring was the planting of 192,000 cohos on the Big Huron River in Baraga County, a tributary to Lake Superior. While these fish have not undergone the surprising growth of the cohos released downstate, their rate of recovery by sport fishermen in Lake Superior has been amazing. Cohos are now being caught in goodly numbers by trollers in bays in L'Anse, Marquette, Munising and elsewhere along the south shore of the lake.

Netted 15,000

The Michigan Conservation Department has certainly embarked on an imaginative program with the coho salmon. It has earned the gratitude of sport fishermen throughout the state for its willingness to experiment.

But the coho program and others that are contemplated were jeopardized by the Indiana incident. The Conservation Department's Fish Division figures that commercial fishermen in the Indiana area may have netted 15,000 cohos within the past month. If true, that amounts to 2.5 per cent of all the coho planted in Lake Michigan streams last spring.

Wayne H. Tody, chief of the fish division, is right when he says, "It's quite obvious that we have to ask other Great Lakes states to give these new fish the same kind of protection that we have required of our own commercial fishermen."

Michigan's coho experiment has shown too much promise to allow anything to endanger it now.

It would have been difficult for most East-West pairs to find a double of three hearts but this West wasn't an ordinary player. He knew that his partner must hold clubs and other big cards and that some of them had to be in hearts. West doubled and North and South had no escape.

There wasn't much to the defense. West opened the king of diamonds. South ducked in dummy, West played a second diamond, won by dummy's ace. East won the three of spades lead with his ace and led a trump. Eventually South could only collect five trump tricks and one diamond and was down 800.

There are a lot of new bids floating around today. Most are valuable when used properly but like many playthings, they can be very dangerous when used improperly.

North's two-no-trump call was the unusual no-trump. This gadget has achieved considerable popularity in expert circles but it can prove very dangerous to its user.

The unusual no-trump shows a minor two-suiter hand. North certainly did hold a fair hand with 11 cards in the minor suits but North was vulnerable and his opponents were not. This time he would have been better advised to give up the idea of bidding at all.

East's double showed high cards and defense against at least one minor. East was ready to operate against clubs and hoped that his partner might be

The Doctor Ann Landers

Says: Use Of Flag Always One Of Good Taste

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT
M.D.

Newspaper Enterprise Assn. Children run a high fever more readily than adults. It is not uncommon for a child with a sore throat to have a temperature of 104 degrees. Every fever in an infant is not necessarily a sign of an infection. Crying may send an infant's temperature up two degrees with a turn to normal a minute or two after the crying stops.

Although fever helps the body to fight an infection, it is wise to bring the temperature down to within one or two degrees of normal because fever produces profuse sweating and leads to dehydration. Because a prolonged fever of 104 or 105 degrees may also lead to convulsions, sponge baths to bring the temperature down are often the best way to stop an infant's convulsions.

In older children, fruit juice and candy have been found to be excellent remedies for fever as they replace the fluids and the energy lost through sweating and the production of body heat. This treatment is most effective if it is started before the fever has caused a marked loss of appetite.

Q—Is it harmful for children to eat snow that has just fallen?

A—Every snowflake contains a speck of dirt around which the water crystallizes and every child eats his proverbial cup of dirt but I don't advise it. Gather up a handful of fresh snow and warm it over a low flame so your children can see for themselves how murky it is when melted.

Q—If, after a bout of rheumatic fever, a child develops a heart murmur can be ever lead a normal life?

A—Although a murmur occurring after rheumatic fever is most likely caused by damage to a heart valve, your doctor should make sure the murmur is not a functional one and of no significance. If the child really has rheumatic heart disease your doctor should ascertain its severity and take steps to prevent further damage. This entails taking prophylactic doses of antibiotics or sulfa drugs for several years.

With skillful treatment many of these children can lead a fairly normal life — the girls may marry and raise a family and the boys may engage in almost all normal activities except such sports as football, hockey, boxing and wrestling. If the disease is so severe that activity must be greatly restricted, an operation on the damaged heart valve — even after many years — may restore normal or nearly normal function.

Dear Ann Landers: I am pretty upset about something I saw this afternoon and I did not know whether I had a right to speak up. Please tell me.

I was walking by a lot where some men were tearing down an old house. One of the men was wiping a piece of window pane with what appeared to be a striped rag. When I got closer I discovered it was the American flag. I couldn't believe my eyes. I walked up to the man and asked him how come he was using the American flag for a cleaning rag. He said it was an old worn out flag so it didn't make any difference.

I think it makes a lot of difference. Is there a law against this? Please print my letter and your answer. There is so much ignorance around these days it is hard to believe.—D. J.

Dear D. J.: You are right; this is a shocking example of disrespect for the flag. Proper use of national flags, our own and those of other countries, is a matter of law in some circumstances and a matter of good taste at all times. You can obtain a list of regulations and customs concerning use of the flag at any public library.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a 15-year-old boy who would like to pay tribute to all the mothers in the world.

Last week our mother had to go to the hospital for an operation. Before she left she baked our favorite things, cooked a lot and cleaned up the house so it was spotless. We told mom not to worry, that we would keep everything nice until she got home.

After three days my dad and I realized how much we had taken mom for granted. We try to keep things in place but anyone who walks into the house can see that it's not like when mom is here.

Please print my letter to show my mom and all other moms that we really do appreciate them a lot. It's funny we didn't know how much she did for us until we had to do things for ourselves.—J. L. S.

Dear J. L. S.: Here's your letter and I hope by the time it appears in the paper you haven't started to take her for granted again.

Dear Ann Landers: I have been carrying your Christmas essay around in my wallet ever since I read it. You said, among other things, that it was no disgrace to fail, the disgrace was in not getting up to try again.

That one line hit me right between the eyes. I decided you meant it just for me. I have had some tough breaks in my life (a few I brought on myself) and instead of picking myself up I just lay there and wallowed in self pity.

After I read your essay I decided it was up to me to fight back. I did and it paid off. In case you haven't already guessed, the problem was booze. Thanks for your help. It's amazing how one line in Ann Landers column changed my whole life.—BETTER DAYS AHEAD

Dear Better: I'm proud of you. The battle of the bottle is one of the toughest of all. But hold the phone, friend, it's a little too early to count your victory as permanent. Live one day at a time and congratulate yourself for that day's victory.

Food Prices Up; Weather Blamed

NEW YORK (AP) — Food prices, which have been falling since last Thanksgiving, took a jump this week.

Consumers are likely to find higher price tags on meat, vegetables and fruit in the wake of falling meat production, heavy rains in California, a drought in Florida and freezing weather in the Great Plains.

Demand for beef and pork has increased, and so have prices. A major supermarket chain in the New York area raised sirloin steak 10 cents a pound, rib roast 20, veal chops and leg of lamb 4 cents this week. Pork chops were unchanged.

Bacon is up 1 to 2 cents a pound in California and other pork cuts are 1 to 3 cents higher on the West Coast.

Chicken prices, however, are generally lower. So is turkey. Fresh produce selections have been limited by the weather.

Rains and killing frosts damaged broccoli and slowed strawberries, asparagus, cauliflower, tomatoes, cherries, pears and apricots in California. Strawberries, snap beans and peppers have been hit hard by rain in Louisiana.

The problem is just the opposite in Florida, where ministers have been praying for rain.

In the Midwest, farmers are concerned about the wheat crop. Wholesale flour prices went up this week.

Canned tomato product prices are headed up again. Stocks are 21 per cent lower than a year ago. Consumers can expect to pay more for peeled tomatoes, catsup, tomato juice, sauce, puree and chili sauce.

Canned fruit prices also may rise.

Buy and sell the classified way.

Michigan Farm Prices Slump

LANSING (AP) — The index of prices received by Michigan farmers as of mid-April was 260 per cent of the 1910-14 average, a four point drop from mid-March.

The State Crop Reporting Service said price decreases for wheat, potatoes, pork, milk and eggs more than offset increases for beans, oats and beef.

The index increased seven points from April of 1966. Higher prices for corn and wholesale milk contributed mostly to the increase.

Lutheran Laymen

MANISTEE (AP) — Some 200 Lutheran laymen are expected to attend the 25th annual Lutheran Layman's League Convention for the Michigan District, Missouri Synod, this weekend.

THE BRONZE STAR is recommended for Sgt. Ronald L. Englund for service in Vietnam. Sgt. Englund enlisted in 1963 and spent 29 months in Italy. He reenlisted in 1966 and volunteered to serve in Vietnam. He will be coming home for a 30 day leave next month after having spent a year in Vietnam. He graduated from the Rock High School in 1963 and is the son of Mrs. Celia Englund of Turin.

Educators Urged To March For Fiscal Reform

LANSING (AP) — James F. O'Neil is urging fellow educators to stage another march on Lansing to lobby for fiscal reform.

O'Neil, a member of the State Board of Education, said he has sent letters and telegrams to leaders of the March 1 demonstration and to school superintendents around the state.

The telegrams warned: "Your immediate action is required if fiscal reform for quality education is to be rescued from being strangled to death in the Legislature."

Unless new tax revenue is approved, O'Neil said, the amount of state funds available for schools next year will be $20 million less than is being provided this year, and about $167 million less than Gov. George Romney has proposed.

A new tax package tied to a state income tax is now being debated in the House. Another package, also containing a state income tax, is in committee in the Senate.

The dental program will be continued next year and Mrs. Clara Kaminen will assist with the program. The committee viewing the film strips voted to purchase, "I Never Looked At It That Way," to be used in the school for sex education. The next meeting will be in September when the new officers will be installed.

Smits Reminds Michigan

Planted Wildlife Thrives

By LEE SMITS

House cleaning fever assails housewives, spring and fall, and acutely annoys their husbands, although men can also become infected with it. Which explains the sorting of a desk drawer marked ITOD. ITOD stands for "In The Open Dump", all kinds of wildlife items winding up in this receptacle.

Hauled out on the desk top, the assortment of left-overs, memos, odd items will serve for a mixed column, starting off with a news item grabbed in the office of Bill Mullendore, I. and E. chief of the Michigan Department of Conservation. I. E. standing, of course, for information and education, one of the most important adjuncts of any conservation agency.

Michigan's new miracle fish, the coho salmon, pursuing schools of the alewife, a "trash" fish has congregated in the southwestern bight of Lake Michigan where commercial fishermen out of Indiana ports are taking them in quantity — or were until a few days ago. Dr. Ralph MacMullin, conservation director, has made an urgent plea to Indiana conservation authorities to halt coho netting, and very likely his request has been granted. Meanwhile, coho have been selling in Chicago for 70 cents a pound.

The astounding success of coho plantings by the Michigan Conservation Department recalls other introduced species, the most spectacular of which is the carp.

Next in the heap of ITOD items, a 17-year-old letter from Fred A. Westerman, for years chief of the Conservation Department Fish Division, recalling the planting of infant eels, or elvers, in Michigan lakes and streams.

Eels were caught in lakes and millponds for a number of years until the original planting had been exhausted. Eels were unable to travel to their spawning grounds in the South Atlantic.

The Westerman letter, dated 1950, says: "We had two eels on exhibit at the State Fair 30 years ago. They had been purchased in a Detroit market. After the fair eels were transferred to the Lydell State Fish Hatchery at Grand Rapids. Dwight Lydell remarked that he didn't believe the eels would stay in a hatchery pond because of their ability to travel short distances over wet grass. They promptly disappeared and it's likely that they found their way down Mill Creek into Lake Michigan so the eel taken near the Grosse Ile air base, whose photo you sent, might well be one of these strays. Eels are hardy and long-lived."

Plantings of rainbow trout, elk, wild turkeys and — most notably — pheasants, released in 1916, have been highly successful, whereas efforts to establish populations of Hungarian partridge and reindeer have failed. Forty years ago a heavy die-off of moose on Ile Royale prompted a trapping program which made it possible to release some 70 moose on the Upper Peninsula mainland. The moose were released in early spring. During the summer and fall there were frequent moose sightings, but within two years moose were back to their normal scarcity.

To wind up the history of introduced species, we have on the Seney Federal Wildlife Refuge a breeding population of the giant Canada goose, a species that was regarded as extinct until recent years. These birds attain a weight approaching 20 pounds. The original stock was brought into Michigan from North Dakota.

The Belmont police station in Chicago received a frantic call a few nights ago from a motorist who reported that a goose had smashed through his windshield. An officer found the goose draped over the steering wheel of Stanley Pogorzelski's car. This bird weighed 15 pounds, twice the weight of an average Canada. Could be that it was a goose on its way to nestings grounds in Northern Michigan. Probably it left a grieving mate. Canada geese are monogamous, faithful to death.

Tigress Caged

EDINBURGH, Scotland (AP) — A 500-pound tigress that had gnawed through its cage and escaped aboard a Danish ship bound for Scotland was drugged and quietly captured by Edinburgh Zoo officials.

The tigress was holed up in a cabin on the cargo ship Borreby. Zoo officials shot a harmless hypodermic dart into her and when she was asleep, put her in a cage.

Youth Ponders Cost Of Pool

Does the Escanaba area need a swimming pool? How much will it cost? Who will pay for it? These and other questions relating to a proposed recreation building-swimming pool for Escanaba were discussed at a meeting of the Escanaba Area Public High School "city council," part of the student government day experience.

The students elect their own "council" and municipal judge and the council in turn appoints other municipal department heads. The "take over" of city government includes tours of city departments and facilities and the council session.

Richard Ferrario and Elmore Vaden are the teachers of government in the two sections at the Area High School.

Council And Staff
Vern Olsen is mayor of the council and other council members are Roger Collins, Kathy Sundquist, Kerry Anderson and Mike Berro. David Ness is municipal judge. Ann Beck is manager and Karen Anderson is city clerk. David Lee, administrative assistant, and Miss Beck are juniors. The other students are seniors.

Appointive positions were held by John Vaden, assessor; Marty Oslund, controller; Dan

The student "city council" had a number of items on its agenda, but the proposed construction of a recreation building, with or without a swimming pool, occupied much of the discussion time.

Pool's Benefit
Escanaba has $300,000 in Catherine Bonifas funds which may be used to finance the proposed project. Architects estimate this money would be for a recreation building only.

There are no federal funds for a swimming pool — but there might be federal aid for the recreation building and the Bonifas money might then be used to pay for a pool. There is no immediate assurance if federal aid is available however.

The students in discussion indicated their interest in having a pool as a benefit to people of all ages in the community.

Meyer Township Sets May 7-13 Cleanup Drive

HERMANSVILLE—The Meyer Township Board has designated the week of May 7-13 as Clean Up, Fix Up week in the Township.

It is expected that Cub Scout units will join in the campaign.

In other action, the Board named Raymond Bruley to replace Walter Bellmore in charge of garbage cleanup, cemetery and town maintenance and approved establishment of a branch office of the Menominee-Delta - Schoolcraft Community Action Agency in the Township Fire Dept. building for a senior citizens center.

The Board also approved purchase of a "bubble light" for the car of Edward Plunger, township constable, badges for Plunger and Richard Grenier, and expansion of the township library in the community club.

Gunman Robs Store Of $106

MARQUETTE — Area police today were searching for a man who Wednesday night held up a corner store at gunpoint and in the process struck a boy in the face with the gun.

City Police said a man entered Johnny's Corner at 10:30 p.m. and announced "this is a holdup" after brandishing a pearl-handled revolver. He then struck William Johnson, 15, a customer, in the face with the gun.

Employee, Gladys Burbee, opened the cash register and the bandit took $106 in currency, refusing any loose change. He then ordered the two people to lie face down and said if they moved within five minutes he would shoot.

He had threatened to kill them earlier.

Three minutes after the robber left, Mrs. Burbee locked the door and called police.

The man was described as about 6 feet tall, between 24 and 28 years of age, with dark hair. The boy was not seriously hurt. Owner of the store is John Robert.

Briefly Told

Einar Olsen, 77, of Escanaba Rte. 1, who was injured when he fell down a flight of steps, is reported in good condition today at St. Francis Hospital. The accident occurred at 6:40 p.m. Wednesday in Escanaba where he was visiting at 605 Stephenson Ave., according to city police.

Escanaba police are investigating the breaking and entering of the Ely Potato Chip office at 815 1st Ave. N. last night, where candy and pop machines were broken open and desks were rifled. About $11 is missing.

A traffic court summons has been issued by Escanaba police to Ethel M. Meretsky, 1825 9th Ave. S., for disobeying a stop sign and failing to yield the right of way.

Romney Blasts Wallace Racism

LANSING (AP) — Former Alabama Gov. George Wallace is running a "racist campaign" aimed at making himself the presidential nominee of a third party, Gov. George Romney charged Wednesday.

"When you get right down to it, the distinctive thing about the Wallace campaign is that it's a racist campaign," Romney told a news conference.

The Michigan chief executive, a top prospect for the 1968 Republican presidential nomination, said Wallace has coupled a thinly disguised effort to bind discrimination in with pleas for states' rights.

"One state right that he is pushing is the right to segregation," Romney said.

At the same time, Romney said, he is resigned to being attacked because his religion, Mormonism, excludes Negroes from its priesthood, although Negroes may be church members.

"The issue doesn't bother me," he said. "There are some Negro members of the church. If they were complaining that would be one thing."

"My record is clear," he said. "No one believes more fully and firmly in equality than I do."

Viet Regulars Battle Marines Near Laos Line

miles north of Saigon, two of the 12 American Green Berets in the camp were killed and the three companies of South Vietnamese and Montagnard militiamen — about 300 men — suffered heavy losses.

For 11 days, the Marines have been trying to wrest control of three hills near the Laotian border from well-entrenched North Vietnamese soldiers who reportedly had been preparing an attack on Khe Sanh in an effort to obtain a psychological victory. The hills also command Communist infiltration across the demilitarized zone and the Laotian border, but Marine officers said they didn't plan to hold them once the enemy was driven off.

Casualty figures for the campaign edged up. Marine losses were given as 157 killed and 738 wounded, with 264 of the latter hurt seriously enough to be evacuated. The Marines said 506 of the enemy were confirmed killed. But Lt. Gen. Lewis Wall, the Marine commander in Vietnam, estimated after a visit to the battlefield Wednesday that at least 1,000 of the enemy had been killed.

Wall said the North Vietnamese at the three hills — 861, 881 South and 881 North — were "the most tenacious we've fought" in the two years since he came to Vietnam.

Information on the situation around the three hills today was sketchy. A U.S. spokesman said significant fighting resumed early today and was continuing and that there had been additional casualties.

Escanaba District Has Four Blazes

Twenty-nine forest fires were reported in the Upper Peninsula in the week ending April 29, burning 196 acres. Four fires were reported in the Escanaba District (Delta and Marquette counties and west half of Alger) burning 33.7 acres. To date it has had 16 fires burning 33.7 acres.

Seven fires were reported from the Newberry District burning 91.8 acres. A total of 60 U. P. fires have burned 295 acres to date. Last year at this time there had been 62 fires burning 366 acres.

Escanaba Firm To Build Marina

ST. IGNACE—The Gallagher Marine Construction Co. of Escanaba has been awarded the contract for construction of a $177,000 marina at Hiawatha Club point near Nautawinway.

Garfield Township Supervisors Emmett Vallier said the marina will include a breakwater and facilities for a dock master, rest rooms and shower. The marina is designed to harbor 16 boats.

Site was donated to the township by the Hiawatha Club. Construction is expected to begin this month.

MANISTIQUE Fishing Season Opening Is Good

April 29th proved a good opening for the general fishing season, especially for anglers in the brook trout lakes, the district Conservation office reports. Stream conditions were generally high and fishing was slow. Overcast skies with southerly winds and rain provided an almost ideal weather condition.

Heavy rains Sunday night brought up streams a bit and will hamper fishing a few days. Clear skies and strong winds are expected to bring the water level down.

Rainbow trout are starting to move up streams more readily in district four. High, rocky streams in the Lake Superior watershed have produced adverse conditions.

Run Coming
Some fish 3 1/2 to 12 lbs. were reported taken from the Two - Hearted River and a few tackle - busters were not landed. Fish were evident as far up as the High Bridge.

The Sucker River at Grand Marais was high and very few fish were taken. One lucky fisherman landed four between three and six pounds on the weekend. Sable Creek in Alger County also produced a few good "bows. The Black River in Mackinac County got a good play from fishermen. Fish were evident but not cooperating, the department notes. Of 20 taken, one was 8 lbs. The spring run should be well underway within the next two weeks.

Some rainbow were taken from Highbanks Lake in Chippewa County. Clear and Bear lakes in Schoolcraft County are generally good early season producers.

Coho salmon were reported taken in Lake Superior off the mouth of the Two - Hearted. This was not confirmed. One confirmed report was a 15 1/2 inch coho caught on a red and white daredevil off the mouth of Half-acre Creek in Chippewa County, about 150 yards from shore in 10 feet of water. This fisherman also caught an 18 inch rainbow on the same lure.

Coho may well be present where concentrations of forage fish such as smelt occur, the department reports.

Splake
Small trout lakes are most popular at this time of year for brook trout — these producing good results are Brush, Peanut, Youngs, Ward, Dillingham, Benny and Long Lakes in Luce County.

Splake fishermen were lucky on Pretty Lake in Luce County with fish in the 10 to 18 class prevalent. They are taken on night crawlers and rainbow spawn. Moon Lake in Luce County also produced a few fish, including an 18 - inch beauty.

Waters around Drummond Island are reported producing good catches of jumbo perch. The Les Cheneaux Channels near Cedarville are also producing some nice catches. Fishermen on Big Manistique Lake had good luck. Fishing should improve for this species as soon as fish have finished spawning.

Smelt
Some walleye are being caught in Big Manistique Lake and Indian Lake. The fish are still spawning and are apt to be found close to shore.

Smelt continue to be taken in both Lake Superior and Lake Michigan streams. The spring run is expected to be over by the end of the week.

Menominee are biting well at the mouth of the Big Two-Hearted River. The size class is small. They are being readily taken at the mouth of the Blind Sucker River in Luce County and Sable and Hurricane Creeks in Alger County.

Memominee are biting well at the mouth of the Big Two-Hearted River. The size class is small. They are being readily taken at the mouth of the Blind Sucker River in Luce County and Sable and Hurricane Creeks in Alger County.

First Cohos Planted Here

First planting of coho salmon in Schoolcraft County took place Wednesday with 46,000 scheduled to be placed in Thompson Creek for brood stock.

The Thompson hatchery of the Conservation Department also is planting 465,000 cohos in the Huron River in a project which will take 5-6 days to complete. Today is the third day in the program. Seven trucks are bringing the cohos for planting.

All available cohos at the hatchery are being planted. Another year group is coming up, Martin Miller, superintendent, said.

Some of the fish are up to 7 inches.

It will not be legal to take the cohos in stream fishing until Aug. 1, Miller stresses.

German Food Prices High, Visitor Notes

Maria Mrosek, who came to Manistique 14 years ago to join her sister, Mrs. Thomas Wood here, has returned from a month's visit in West Germany.

During her stay she helped celebrate her mother's 80th birthday anniversary and visited with her five sisters. She next hopes to travel there for her parents' 60th wedding anniversary in two years. Her father, now retired is a forester.

Prices in West Germany are high, she notes. Cough drops selling for a dime here are 19 cents there. A pound of good coffee costs nine marks, or about $2.30 as the rate of exchange is 3.95 marks per dollar, she states.

A visit with friends in Berlin, where Maria managed a store before coming here, was included on the trip, made by plane from Chicago. This was her fourth trip back since coming and her second by herself. On the other two occasions her sister, Mrs. Wood accompanied her.

Admitted to Schoolcraft Memorial Hospital were Wendy Ryser, Casper Reinwand, Lillian Stites, Elvis Ray Hutchins, Russell Vanderville and Martha Peterson.

Boston, Yankee Pitchers Stake Hard-Luck Claims

By The Associated Press

Mr. Lomborg, say hello to Mr. Talbot.

Boston's Jim Lomborg and New York's Fred Talbot both staked claims to charter membership in the hard-luck pitchers club Wednesday night.

Both nursed slim leads all game long and both were victims of ninth-inning misfortune.

Lomborg, in fact, was working of a no-hitter for six innings and then a one-hitter until California caught up with him in the ninth and won 2-1.

Talbot, for his part, went into the ninth with a two-run lead over Minnesota, but an error by outfielder Tom Tresh opened the gates and the Twins pulled off a 4-3 triumph.

Lomborg's undoing was more of his own making than Talbot's. After giving up a seventh-inning single to Jim Fregosi, the 24-year-old Boston right-hander stopped the Angels until the ninth when, with one out, Fregosi got the second hit off him.

Then Jay Johnstone and Rick Reichardt discovered Lomborg was human and got singles of their own. Reichardt's driving in Fregosi to tie the score.

Boston Manager Dick Williams left Lomborg to face his own dilemma and, after Jimmie Hall was purposely walked Don Wallace fouled out.

But Lomborg came apart at the seams, uncorked a wild pitch and Johnstone tripped across the plate with the winning run.

Talbot's undoing was, if anything, even more heart-rending though in the end, he didn't have to take the defeat. Mickey Mantle's 499th career home-run had helped stake him to the 3-1 lead he carried into the ninth inning.

Zoilo Versalles singled and Harmon Killebrew walked and Hal Reniff came in to pitch. Bob Allison walked and was forced at second by Andy Kosco with Versalles scoring on the play.

Then Russ Nixon popped out and Tresh's turn at disaster appeared.

Ron Clark hit a pop into short left and Tresh, charging in, missed the ball, allowing Killebrew to score the tying run.

"I just couldn't catch up to it," said Tresh. "It came down funny and when I grabbed for it I just missed it."

Rich Reese drove in the winning run with a single to right, driving in Allison and pinning the defeat on Reniff.

Elsewhere in the American League, Cleveland beat Baltimore 5-1, Washington took Kansas City 6-1 and Chicago edged Detroit 2-1.

In the National League, Pittsburgh

burgh outfought Los Angeles 6-5 in 15 innings. St. Louis blanked Cincinnati 2-0, Philadelphia shut out Houston 1-0, San Francisco bombed New York 8-0 and Atlanta beat Chicago 4-0.

The Yanks and Twins played in bitter cold on the northwestern tundra, bringing renewed outcries from the Yankees players who claimed the weather was more suited to fireplaces than fly balls and promised to fight for a rule forbidding such cold-weather play.

Sonny Siebert drove in three runs with a homer and double and held the Orioles to seven hits. Rocky Colavito added his first homer of the season for the Indians.

Phil Ortega pitched a four-hitter and Frank Howard's two-run single was the big blow in a four-run seventh inning for the Senators.

The White Sox moved into a first-place tie with the Tigers on the strength of run-scoring singles by Pete Ward and Tom McCraw. Bob Locker saved the victory for starter Gary Peters.

Boyle Breaks Soo Kiwanis Meet Record

SAULT STE. MARIE—Eskymo senior Jim Boyle streaked to a new Kiwanis Invitational track and field meet record in the 120 hurdles here Wednesday, stepping the timbers in 15.3 seconds.

Boyle's time, coming in a preliminary race, snapped the former record of 15.6 established last spring by Brad Shoultice of Soo. It also broke Boyle's school record of 15.5 which he set last year and is a tenth of a second faster than the U. P. Class A-B record. Boyle was unchallenged in winning the finals in the highs in 16 flat.

Boyle also skinned the lows in 21.8 for a double victory to lead the abbreviated Eskymo team to third place in the team standings. Dennis Johnson won the shot put with a flip of 47 feet 1 1/4 inches and Paul Miller was first in the high jump at 5-9 1/2, stopping at that height without competition.

Other Esky point producers were Jim Olsen, third in the 440, Rick Anderson tied for fourth in the 880, Mike O'Leary tied for fifth in the high jump and the 880 relay team with a second place effort.

Following Johnson in the shot put was Gladstone's Roy DeWitt with a toss of 46 feet 9 1/2 inches. Other Gladstone athletes earning points were Jim Swenson tied for fifth at 11 feet in the pole vault.

Steve Nelson fifth in the high hurdles, Steve Schram third in his 880 section in 2:10.04 and Dean Culliton second in another 880 section in 2:09.7.

Softball

The Flat Rock team will practice Sunday at 12:30.

Bobb Rousseau of Montreal led his team in scoring last season with 19 goals and 44 assists for 63 points, sixth best figure in the National Hockey League.

Palmer Favored To Win Houston Champions Meet

HOUSTON (AP) — Wet, windy and wealthy, the $115,000 Champions International had a true battle of champs on its hands today as 100 of golf's best sought its bankroll.

Defending champion Arnold Palmer was thrust into his not-so-unusual role as favorite to grab the $23,000 first place money, yet he complained he just wasn't playing good at all.

"I three-putted three or four greens," he said after a practice round Wednesday with Masters champ Gay Brewer and big Jack Nicklaus, who also looked for the putting touch that had escaped him.

"There's nothing wrong with my game that a few one putt greens wouldn't cure," Nicklaus said. Unlike Palmer, however, he said after the warm-up, "My game wasn't bad today."

Brewer stands a chance this week of wrestling the year's money lead from Palmer, who with victories in the Los Angeles and Tucson Opens, has banked $73,273.

"Arnie doesn't pay attention to such things, but I do," Brewer said, scanning a list of the financial kings. "This is something new for me. Arnie's used to it."

The list showed Brewer second, less than $6,000 behind Palmer. Last year, he finished fifth with over $75,000, more than double his earnings in any year since turning pro in 1956.

Brewer also said he hadn't been playing well since his dramatic Masters victory earlier this year. "I laid off after the Masters, and lost my timing. It's coming back, though."

Rain gave the wooded, rolling course a good soaking Wednesday. Tournament sponsors hoped they wouldn't be faced with the same problem they had last year when the event was postponed from spring until fall because of rain.

Most pros who tested the course in practice rounds agreed it was playing long because of the brisk winds and water.

Palmer won last year in dry weather with a nine-under-par 275.

"I'd take that any day," said Nicklaus, who has found himself in the position to which he's not accustomed — 23rd on the money list with $13,308.

Nicklaus, however, proved he could be a contender on a long, wet course, outdriving Palmer in an exhibition contest Wednesday. He powered the ball 296 yards to Palmer's 265.

Jimmy Demaret, who helped design the 7,118-yard, par 72 Cypress Creek course, declared the field "strongest of any this year, including the Masters."

Soccer Chief Seeking Major Rule Revisions To Add Game Interest

NEW YORK (AP) — The Americanization of soccer is already under way.

The National Professional Soccer League has changed the point system in league standings to put emphasis on offense.

New Commissioner Ken Macker wants to heighten the drama as the first half and the game itself approach their end.

He wants to get referees out of their present dark suits into striped or colored jerseys easily distinguishable from the players on black and white television.

"I'll admit I'm meeting some resistance from our referees, who are very tradition minded," said Macker. "Around the world the referee keeps the time of the game on a stop watch that only he can see with the result that the end of the half and the end of the game come as a complete surprise to both fans and players."

"Not until you see the players wander off the field do you realize play has stopped. I think that's all wrong."

"I want to connect the referee's watch electronically to the score board so everyone will know how much time is left. I've even considered firing a gun two minutes before the half and two minutes before the end of the game but I am afraid that to some of our players that would only sound as if violence had at last broken out and they'd take cover."

"I am also thinking about two referees, one for each half of the field. I do not want to destroy any of the traditions of soccer but I do want to make it as attractive as possible to the American fan. One of our clubs, at the discretion of the general manager, has the power to fine the coach up to $500 if he goes into a defensive game."

"What we have already done has attracted attention abroad. I was delighted to see that the English Football Association has proposed to FIFA, the World Soccer association, that each team be allowed up to two substitutes per game. That's what we set in motion, plus a substitute for the goalkeeper if needed."

The NPSL point system gives six points for a victory, three for a tie, and up to three for each goal scored, even by a losing team.

"That keeps 'em hustling right up to the end," Macker declared.

Under the British system two points are awarded for a victory and one for a tie. Critics claim this has put too much emphasis on defense.

Dotsch has a rugged former Stephenson athlete on his Wildcat squad in the person of Gerald Lutri, a 6 foot 5 inch, 235 pound tackle who will be a senior next fall.

The Upper Peninsula has produced stars in many sports through the years, including such activities as football, basketball, boxing and track. But how many jockeys have come out of the area? One is Jeff Anderson of Kingsford, who never rode a horse before 1964. He was jockey of the year in Arizona this spring and booted home three first place winners, three seconds and several thirds in his first week of competition at Detroit's Hazel Park race track last week.

Dorothy Cox of Munising, mother of six children, smashed a record 681 series recently on games of 257, 220 and 204. A veteran of 20 years in the sport, Mrs. Cox carries a 173 league average.

Ernie Kivisto, Ironwood native, has resigned as basketball coach at East Moline, Ill., high school to accept a similar position at East Aurora. Kivisto, who starred at Marquette University after an outstanding athletic prep career at Ironwood, has guided his teams to 364 victories against 153 defeats in 22 years of coaching. He has been named Illinois high school coach of the year five times.

Jean Vanlerberghe picked up the tough 6-7-10 split in the Sunday Night Mixed Doubles league at the Bowlamara.

Roy DeWitt, Gladstone's husky senior, is the only Upper Peninsula shot putter to reach 50 feet this spring. DeWitt set a new school record early in the season with a toss of 50 feet 1½ inch. The U. P. Class A-B record is 53 feet 8 inches set last year by Escanaba's Jim Hansen.

Rich McCarthy, sophomore quarterback from Kingsford, will miss Northern's spring practice sessions because of a shoulder injury that will require surgery. Coach Rollie Dotsch has indicated that McCarthy will be ready to rejoin the squad for fall practice. McCarthy started five games for Northern in his sophomore season last fall and was the team's total offense leader.

Pistons Strike It Rich, Land Pair Of Cage Stars

NEW YORK (AP) — Detroit's Pistons, fifth and last in the Western Division last season, have struck it rich in the National Basketball Association's college player draft.

Getting two picks in the first round Wednesday, the Pistons drafted Sonny Dove of St. John's to go with the already signed All-America Jimmy Walker of Providence.

They'll have to beat out the New York club of the fledgling American Basketball Association for the services of the spring 6-foot-8 Dove, named New York City's top player.

The ABA team also drafted the flashy New Yorker, a 22.4 points per game shooter and a 14.8 rebounder last season.

In addition, the Pistons expect Terry Dischinger, an outstanding 6-7 corner man or backcourt, back from two years of Army duty. This could make the Pistons a power in the Eastern Division of the realigned and expanded 12-team pro league.

"If we can get some consistency at center, we'll be in good shape," said Ed Coll, general manager of the Pistons. "We were quite fortunate in getting Dove. When we heard that Baltimore was going to take Earl Monroe, then we felt we had a chance for Dove."

Up front the Pistons will have, signed him to a contract for $20,000 annually for two years. No terms were announced. Dischinger, John Tresvant, 6-6, and Dove, if they sign him. The Pistons also drafted two other 6-7 forwards, Steve Sullivan of Georgetown and Darrell Hardy of Baylor.

In the backcourt, they will have Dave Bing, 6-3, last season's Rookie of the Year with a 20 point average, Eddie Miles, 6-4, a 17.6 shooter, and Tom Van Arsdale, 6-5, a hustling 12.2 shooter.

At center the club has Joe Strawder, 6-10, with a 9.4 average and 7-footer Reggie Harding, who averaged only 5.5.

Walker, signed to a four-year contract for an estimated $250,000 to $300,000, was formally picked No. 1 by the Pistons. They had been assigned Los Angeles' first round pick (fourth in the draft) by the league because Rudy LaRusso failed to join the Pistons following his trade by the Lakers to Detroit.

Baltimore, picking second, selected Earl Monroe, 6-3, of 6-11, Brigham Young, by Philadelphia, State, and

Poor Opening Frame Hurts McLain Again

CHICAGO (AP) — Detroit Tigers pitcher Denny McLain is notorious for bad first innings.

During spring training he said he hadn't been able to figure it out. "I tried warming up longer, and I tried warming up shorter," he said. "But nothing seems to work."

A bad first inning ruined him Wednesday night as the Tigers lost to the Chicago White Sox, 2-1, locking Detroit and Chicago in a tie for first place in the American League. Each has won 10 games and lost seven.

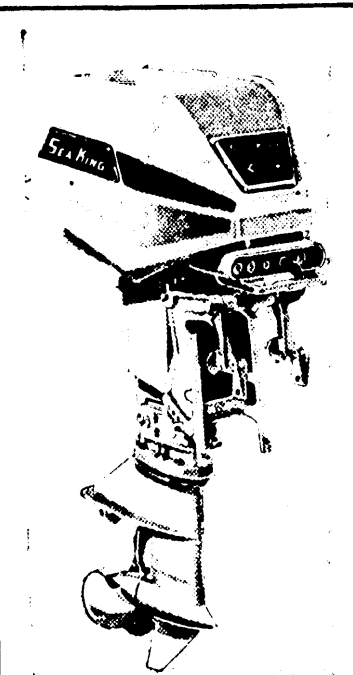

McLain, who gave up a grand slam home run against Baltimore in the first inning his last time out, had the Sox two down in the first.

Then he hit Tommie Agee on the left arm. Agee stole second and scored on a bloop single by Pete Ward. Ward took second on the throw in and then went to third when McLain, who had taken the cutoff throw, overthrew second base.

Tommy McCraw drove in the winning run with a single to right.

Denny pitched five more innings and gave up only two more hits. But the Tigers couldn't catch up, despite twice loading the bases with no one out.

The Tigers made it close in the eighth. Al Kaline singled to

"There isn't a better intermediate size car sold in the United States than the 1967 Rebel" says Tom McCahill, automobile expert for Mechanix Illustrated.

Tom McCahill evaluates the automobile industry for Mechanix Illustrated. Recently, he took out an SST hardtop equipped with a 343 cu. in. Typhoon V-8 for an exhaustive series of road tests. How did our Excitement Machine perform?

"In roadability and performance, it would top most of the newer specialty cars. There's absolutely no plowing and little body roll. The whole feel of the car, when going over ruts or across dirt roads, is excellent."

What about comfort? "It's extremely comfortable and relaxing to drive. In straight-line driving the SST is as comfortable as the Jell-O specials."

How about Rebel's new four-link rear suspension?

"Of all the new sporty-type cars, as they come from the showroom, Rebel has by far the best and safest suspension of the whole kit and caboodle."

And the looks? "As sharp in appearance as a thousand-dollar bill. And from a cost angle, Rebel's not overpriced."

This is your kind of excitement, created by American Motors. A company that has created an entire line of six-passenger Excitement Machines that give you more excitement for the money.

See your American Motors/Rambler Dealer. He'll convince you the 1967 Rebel is the best intermediate built in the country today. Then do what Tom McCahill did. Take a test-drive.

Only 13 Lake Trout Breeders Remaining

By KENNETH S. LOWE

There are 13 lake trout in one of the pools at the Marquette Fish Hatchery that shouldn't be there. They should be roaming the vastness of Lake Superior. They have earned their freedom and the right to live out their remaining days in the cold depths of the world's largest body of fresh water.

These 13 fish are all that remain of the brood stock that provided lake trout for the Great Lakes restocking program. They are the fish that produced the first spawling in Michigan.

The 13 lakers—all females—are 18 years old and are no longer needed for trout production at the hatchery.

History Traced

Russell Robertson, hatchery superintendent who more than any other person is responsible for production of trout used in the Great Lakes restocking program, traces the history of the venerable 13 back to the fall of 1948 when a few thousand eggs were taken from wild Lake Superior lake trout. After they hatched in Marquette in the spring of 1949, these fish were transferred to a Lower Michigan hatchery until June 1960 when they were brought back to Marquette to be used for experimental brood stock purposes. Hatchery rearing of lake trout was considered necessary because the invasion of the Great Lakes by sea lampreys threatened the native trout population.

By 1954, the number of brood stock trout had diminished to 100, the others having been lost to predation and disease. Fifty-two of these 100 were females, and in 1954 the first attempt was made to obtain eggs from them. Only 18 were mature, and they produced only 17,160 eggs. But those eggs played a vital role in restocking the Great Lakes.

All Mature

All 52 females were mature in 1955 and they produced 84,000 eggs. In 1956 and 1957 about 200,000 eggs were taken from these fish, and the brood stock program was well under way.

Meanwhile, Robertson was successful in 1954 in crossing lake trout with brook trout to produce the state's first "spawling," giving Michigan anglers a new sport species.

From 1954 until last fall the original brood stock had produced 1,264,000 eggs, but by last October only 13 of them remained. Predators, illness and old age had taken their toll.

But of the more than 45,000,000 lake trout eggs taken at the hatchery in the past 18 years, the offspring of these few lakers produced some 20,000,000 eggs, or nearly 50 percent of the total production.

Just how many descendants of these fish are swimming in the Great Lakes will never be known, but the number is sufficient to provide excellent sport fishing.

It is only fitting that these 13 matriarchs now be permitted to join their descendants in their natural realm.

Ex-King Peter Of Yugoslavia Is Businessman

LOS ANGELES (AP) — It's a long way from the Yugoslavian throne, but the businessman's swivel chair seems to suit exiled King Peter II just fine.

"I don't think the training as a monarch helps much," King Peter said here as he went to work with the Sterling Savings & Loan Association of California.

"But I can tell you," he said at a news conference, "I think my connections all over Europe will help a lot. We will try to recruit savings from people abroad."

And the prestige? Doesn't that king image suffer a little in the role of a businessman?

"I think taking this job raises my stature," he replied.

Asked if he went to work out of necessity, the exiled king said: "I have independent means up to a point. When we left I had a little money, but nothing extraordinary."

And what about Yugoslavia, where he ruled as a teenager until driven from the throne by invading armies from Nazi Germany?

"I can't speculate about going back to Yugoslavia is king," he said. But speculating, he said: He would first like to see "a real democratic constitution voted for the country," and then he would "build up and re-establish a good economy."

What does he miss most? "Doing my best for the good of my people."

In the meantime, Peter said, he'll be doing his best for his savings and loan company.

He added that every Californian should have a portfolio of investments — "of which part should be in savings and loans."

"Well said, your majesty," said the firm's board chairman, Jack J. Spitzer.

Griffiths Claims Injustice Faces Working Women

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Martha Griffiths, a champion of equal rights for women, criticized the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission Wednesday for what she said was its failure to set strong guidelines to end sex discrimination by employers.

"I hope you will begin to enforce the law as it was written," said Mrs. Griffiths. "The commission meant for women to come out of this equal."

The Michigan Democrat said the commission's failure to issue opinions in three areas has perpetuated discrimination against women. She said the areas are: State laws regulating women's employment, sex-segregated job advertising and sex differences in employee pension and retirement plans.

Mrs. Griffiths was one of the last of a long line of witnesses to testify during the final day of a two-day public hearing on regulations concerning the three areas.

The commission took the testimony under advisement.

Laws Limit Jobs
She said the so-called state protective laws limiting the hours or regulating the conditions of employment of women "frequently serve, not to protect women, but to limit their opportunities for holding or being promoted in many types of jobs."

Mrs. Griffiths said the commission has acknowledged that many of the state laws discriminate against women's job opportunities but "has refused to express a judgment as to whether, in view of such discrimination, the state law must give way to the requirement of equality" contained in the 1964 Civil Rights act.

"I believe the commission has in this respect failed to perform its statutory duty," said Mrs. Griffiths, a leader in the battle to include sex discrimination in the civil rights measure three years ago.

"The commission is not performing its duty merely by shifting it to the courts, and to the individual women who seek to improve their employment opportunities."

Sex-Labelled Ads
Rep. Griffiths said the commission also has been remiss in not prohibiting sex-labeled columns in help wanted ads in newspapers.

"The sex segregation of employment advertisements cannot be justified by the suggestion that they merely promote the convenience of the job seeker," she said. "Such sex segregation promotes only the tradition that jobs listed for men are not intended for women, and vice versa."

"The job seeker's interest and convenience will be promoted much greater by grouping the ads according to job category so that he or she can try to find the kind of job he or she wants, rather than according to a sex label which automatically discourages persons of the other sex from reading the job ads under that label."

Safety Mirror Nominated For Product Of Year
GRAND RAPIDS (AP) — A safety rear-view mirror for automobiles produced by Donnelly Mirrors, Inc., of Holland, is Region Eight's product of the year and will compete with entries from 15 other regions for the 1967 Michigan Product of the Year as part of Michigan Week May 21-27.

The mirror, Ottawa County's product entry, has a vinyl backing that adheres to the glass and prevents glass from shattering and injuring the driver and occupants.

The mirror competed with two other products from the region. Kent County's entry was an electric hand-carry insecticide sprayer made by Root-Lowell Corp., of Lowell, Allegan County's was an invisible garter for women's girdles made by Sweco Co., a division of Baus Engineering Corp.

Isle Royale Is Readied For June 1 Opener
HOUGHTON (AP) — The Ranger III, 165-foot National Park Service boat which transports tourists to Isle Royale, made its maiden trip of 1967 this week.

It carried no tourists, but aboard were 18 maintenance men and park rangers sent to prepare the island for opening of its season June 1. Four Park Service men previously had been flown to the island.

The trip from Houghton to Isle Royale National Park, out in Lake Superior, requires six hours normally.

Plastic Aid To Brace Wearers

ANN ARBOR (AP) — A plastic generally used for things such as coating dish racks has been adapted to help people who wear braces and artificial limbs.

The material, plastisol, normally is used in coating dish racks, artificial fruit, toy dolls and the like. But experimenters at the University of Michigan Hospital found the stuff makes great padding for braces and artificial limbs.

Henry J. Sturza, director of orthotics and prosthetics at the hospital, said: "Leather-lined braces often bring on a skin inflammation because of bacteria that seem to thrive in worn and rotting leather."

"Unlike leather, plastisol doesn't absorb perspiration and doesn't have to be replaced every three to six months. It wears several years, and is a considerable saving in time and money for the patient."

A new formula eliminated previous plastisol problems of friction against the skin, Sturza said.
